DIRECTOR'S NOTE

It's always fun returning to the Midnite Movie Double Features. With each show, we try to pick movies of different content—from a were-gorilla, to giant leeches, to killer shrews, to the Beasts of Yucca Flats—but all equally as goofy to listen to.

In choosing Wild Rebels, we wanted to try something different for Midnite Movie. As exploitation films, the biker B-movies were often held together by tough guy types driving around their motorcycles and beating up anyone who didn't fit in with their outfit—all for kicks! In some instances, these characters were Vietnam veterans channeling their sense of betrayal, disappointment, and aggression of combat upon their return home. For the Wild Rebels, all they're looking for, however, is kicks.

Our tradition of B-horror films is continued with The Horror of Party Beach. Influenced by the success of the Frankie Avalon and Annette Funicello Beach Party movies, The Horror of Party Beach is true camp. While we can't bring you the delightfully un-horrifying monster costumes or convey the full range of perplexing dance moves, the elements that make this B-horror film notable are still present. Thank you for coming to see the show. Enjoy!
