DIRECTOR'S NOTE

Many classic serial killer narratives tend to focus on the psychology of the killer - what makes them tick, what goes on inside their head, what tragic circumstance could have possibly led them to commit such heinous acts. In this fictionalized retelling of the Jack the Ripper murders, we instead take a look at the effects that brutal crime and the fear that ensues can have on a threatened community. Drawing from film influences like Micheal Mann's Manhunter and David Fincher's Zodiac, we present our version of the story of Jack the Ripper, interlaced with the synth prowess of Tangerine Dream. Enjoy.
