Meet John Doe-September 13

A hapless everyman becomes the face of an unintentional grassroots political movement in this classic from Frank Capra. Problem is, the everyman is a fraud, and the newspapers are milking his fame for all it's worth! The fix is in on this razor sharp satire.

The Ancient Mariner-October 18

In this Limelight original adaptation of "The Rime of The Ancient Mariner," the gothic poem by Samuel Coleridge, a crew of shipmates escorting a group of nuns to Spain runs afoul of evil when the ship's captain upsets nature's delicate balance. The primal forces of nature begin to take their horrifying vengeance against all aboard in this terror tale.

In The Land of Bullets & Consequences - November 1

Limelight's first all-original radio play is a story of the old west, as young William Campbell, part Arapahoe Indian, returns to his hometown from college to find it overrun by renegade Union soldiers in the aftermath of the Civil War. He must team up with a verbose outlaw named Diamond Joe to rid the town of the murderous band in this story, inspired by Spaghetti Westerns like The Good, The Bad, & The Ugly. Written by Brian Brems & Anthony Ortiz

Director's Note

Welcome one and all to the kickoff of Limelight's Fall Radio Season. We have a horror-iffic show lined up for you, but first, some sentimental personal schlock. As members of Limelight for 15 years(!), it's a privilege to be making our directorial debuts with the remarkable scripts of The Horrors of Spider Island and Attack of the Giant Leeches. We've always appreciated the intimate nuances of Limelight's radio productions. From the lightning quick one-day-only rehearsal schedule to the daringly crafty sound effect creations, the radio broadcasts offer a fresh take on old stories from an even older medium on the live stage. They let our performers focus on character development, but most of all they're just a ton of fun. We sure hope you think so.

A huge thanks goes out to the talented Jacob Lantz for spending far too much time watching these old movies to adapt the script, and especially for his particularly inspired sound effect descriptions. Thank you's are also in order for Julie Kiser and Brian Brems for running sound for the show. You guys are awesome. And the final acknowledgement goes out to you, the audience, for choosing to spend your Saturday night with us for some B-movie scares and laughs and, well, mostly laughs. So sit back, relax, drop the top down, and let's have a terror-iffic time. ... You see that. It's the same joke from before. Enjoy the show.
